Protect Your Greatest Asset with Data Security & Disaster Recovery

The truth about disasters is that they can happen to any business at any time. And the downtime that results can be truly catastrophic.

In early 2014, popular messaging app Whatsapp went down for 4 hours due to server failure, causing 7 million of its users to flock to its competitors, Telegram and Line.

In 2016, Southwest Airlines experienced a system-wide power outage, leading to the cancellation of 2,300 flights and costing the company between $54 million and $82 million in lost revenue.

When Hurricane Sandy struck, it also took down a Datagram datacenter in Manhattan, causing major websites such as The Huffington Post, BuzzFeed, Jezebel, and many others to go down.

Data security and disaster recovery go hand in hand. At IPRO, we'll help your company plan for disasters encompassing all types and sizes – from fires, floods, and human error to cyberattacks, ransomware, system failures, and more.
